

AMERICA'S AUTOMOTIVE
Trust

Adam Langsbard Departs America's Automotive Trust – Paul E. Miller, Senior VP for Finance and Operations to Assume Interim Leadership

Contact: PCG – Eric Pylvanainen (424) 903-3685 epylvanainen@pacificcommunicationsgroup.com
ACM – Ashley Bice (256) 506-6195 ashley.bice@americasautomotivetrust.org

TACOMA, Wash. (July 17, 2018) – America's Automotive Trust (AAT) has announced that Adam Langsbard has resigned his post as President & CEO for personal and family reasons and will return to Los Angeles. The Trust, its board, and all of its member organizations – including LeMay – America's Car Museum (ACM), the RPM Foundation, Club Auto and the Concours Club – wish Adam and his family well.

“Adam came to us with a successful and diverse track record of elevating many different types of enterprises,” said AAT Chairman Corry McFarland. “During his brief time at AAT, he provided leadership and expertise that will stay with us long after he departs.”

Current AAT Senior Vice President, Paul E. Miller will assume leadership duties while a search for a new CEO is begun. “Paul has been an integral leader of The Trust since its inception and was the first board Chairman of Lemay – America's Car Museum,” McFarland said. “We're proud to have Paul step in to lead The Trust during this time.”

David Madeira's role will remain as Vice Chairman of The Trust. He will continue to focus on national and strategic initiatives and will work closely with Miller and McFarland on marketing and development.

For more information on America's Automotive Trust, visit americasautomotivetrust.org.

About America's Automotive Trust

America's Automotive Trust (AAT), headquartered in Tacoma, Washington, is a not-for-profit corporation that seeks to secure America's automotive heritage and to transfer the skills and knowledge necessary for the future of collector vehicles and the enthusiast community for generations to come. AAT is made up of four founding members: LeMay – America's Car Museum, the RPM Foundation, Club Auto and the Concours Club. For more information on AAT, visit americasautomotivetrust.org.

###